Maughty Stars Cowed Leopard.

A planter in Tanganyika Territory, South Africa, walking along a foot-path, fell into a big game pit in which a leopard had been trapped. Neither the beast nor the man could get out again, so the planter was "up against it," but remembering what he had heard of the power of the human eye, he fixed the leopard with a haughty stare.

"By this means and by making strange noises, I kept the animal at bay until a friend appeared and shot it," he said.

Others who heard of the affair, and who know the planter very well, point out that he is a lean and slender man, not likely to attract a leopard unless the latter was indeed hungry to a desperate point.

Economy.

Longlocks had just received a check for $10 for one of his poems.

"Now, dearie," said his wife, "let's deposit that check in the savings account and imagine we haven't got it."

"Where will I deposit this bill for the new hat you got last week and imagine I haven't got it?"—From Judge.

No Genius Without Pessimism.

Schopenhauer, in his doctrine of the futility of life, emphasizes the fact that genius suffers more deeply and feels more intensely just because of its abnormally developed will and intellect, and that, therefore, genius without pessimism, is unthinkable either in the field of poetry or philosophy.

The placing of Shakespeare and Buddha in juxtaposition is quite in line with the trend of modern thought. Buddhism, like the Tagore cult, is at present in the forefront of interest, and it is safe to say that during the entire century preceding the war there was less written and said on the subject of Buddhism than in the past year. The most widely divergent intellectual currents are being traced back to the Buddhistic source, and every new system of philosophy and all modern historical researches are built up on Buddhistic foundations.—Exchange.
